SUBJECT: Trapping and Snaring Orientation Classes Scheduled

The Kenai National Wildlife Refuge (Refuge) will hold its 2016 trapping orientation class and snaring seminar on Saturday, October 22, 2016, from 9 am to 5 pm, at the Refuge Environmental Education Center on Ski Hill Road in Soldotna.

To obtain a permit to trap on the Refuge, it is mandatory to attend at least one Refuge trapping orientation. Trappers who have previously attended the trapping and snaring orientation do not need to re-attend; however, all Refuge trappers are welcome.

Starting October 5, trapping permits for the 2016-17 season will be available at the Refuge Headquarters, on Monday through Friday from 8 am until 4:30 pm. For additional information, please contact Refuge Officer Joe Williams at (907) 260-2852.
